CdCoverCreator is a software app which lets you create CD covers, labels, inlays and booklets. It can be used by first-time and experienced users alike. The tool is wrapped in a plain and uncomplicated interface where you can create a new project from scratch, prepare covers for audio or data CDs, get covers from the web, or import a playlist. So, you can add text, images and barcodes, change the background image, zoom in and out, pick a template for the style, as well as use the undo and redo functions. From the 'Program Settings' area, you can view the URLs for CD covers and lyrics, check for new libraries online, as well as specify the path to the default image editor. The software tool has a good response time, needs a very low amount of CPU and system memory, and contains user documentation. We have not come across any problems throughout our evaluation; CdCoverCreator did not freeze, crash or pop up error dialogs. Unfortunately, CdCoverCreator has limited features. For example, you cannot make image adjustments (e.g. brightness, contrast, saturation), or minimize the app to the system tray area. Its interface could had been better organized and more visually appealing. No recent updates have been made. All in all, this is a good tool that does what it should, and it's free. Use it with caution, though, as it won't be the last time we see such a tool.

CdCoverCreator (v1.0.3.0) is a software which is particularly designed for creating covers for CDs in good quality. You have to choose a template or use it as it is. Then you can add all the details and prepare the CD cover. For extra details the program offers the possibility to insert a custom image. Main features: Creating CD covers - The program has a rich selection of templates for you to use and fill in the required information, such as title, artist, genre, and year. Additionally, the program allows you to add custom images or graphics to an inserted CD cover. You can also import covers for the last 30 minutes from the Web and can automatically convert them to the current user's language.

Customization and layout - In the 'Edit Settings' dialog, you can insert images, texts, arrows, lines, shapes, etc. and prepare the layout of your CD cover. Change colors, fonts, and sizes and you are ready to hit the 'Create cover' button. Other features: Automatically created playlist - The program uses a generated playlist to present all the covers in your project. You can then create as many slides as you need by selecting from the set of generated cover images.
