Q: What to do with "didn't do anything" answers? I recently answered a question, and despite the fact that there were a few upvotes (just one at that time, but it looks like it was from my own answer), they went down to 0. The question was unclear, so I updated the answer and added a (wording-)edit, but I felt kind of bad about it.

The question was re-posted a day later, and I think it's not really worth it, so it's not being answered now (other than my addendum).

What should be done with such answers? Just leave it to get cancelled? Is my feeling right, that it really doesn't add anything positive? A: Leave it. I've seen questions with answers which take a while, and the answer is "not a definite answer", but
