In Impulsive Force (IF) your aim is simple: make your way to the end zone! You do this by constantly firing guns to propel the puck to the opposite end of the field. The problem is your ball is only able to go in a straight line! So, by firing guns off-center you are able to change your path, and make the puck go around corners. Your goal is to make it to the end zone with the puck while also controlling the directions your guns turn as you go around corners and make your way through the field. You can make the game play faster by firing the guns at the edge of the field. If you go off-center too far it is possible to overshoot your target and travel past the puck. This can be avoided by keeping the gun aimed roughly at the target area while also controlling your speed. There are several bonus objectives (like a challenge level) to work towards. Good luck! The package comes with a readme file and the setup.exe file. The only known virus for this game is to restart Windows if it freezes. Design The game design features 60 fps and has a backdrop of different environments including a snow covered lake, a jungle, a cold wilderness, a fiery volcanic area and a home neighborhood. The screen resolution is 1280x720. The relative graphical brightness was set to a maximal level (100%). The lighting and shadow effects were added to the pictures and backgrounds of each level. The game has a volume control option in the settings, and the music can be turned off or on in the same setting. Controls The Control with the mouse or a gaming joystick is suitable for PC and Mac. The game controls are the following ones: In the settings menu, the mouse controls the direction of the spaceship and the shooting gun, while the other keys move the spaceship. The player has four available control positions in the level to regulate the game trajectory and control speed. In other menus and inventory screens, the player can rotate the ship around the three axes using the keyboard or mouse and click on the move command. However, it is not advisable to use the same set of keys to toggle the options in the settings menu: it is easier to use a dedicated button to make the next option selection without pressing the same one again. The joystick control is mainly for the

- Poem by William Carlos Williams Covered paper,No.2Same house,The same colorsSame furnitureNothing changes.The patternExcept for accident, of course. The colors match - but not the furniture.Not the patterns - except that the same one comes once in a while.And which came this time - . Perhaps a new guest?I don't know what they want.A guest here - Yet - if it were my door - I would pick my own people. Well, what do they want?Covered paper?A chair, a cup?The world is their room,And the world is our room.Here, we live.Whoever we are, whoever they are,None of them are us.All the cups are clean.So if the world is their room,Their plates or cups could be ours.But - in few years - after the guests may go -And may be a new one comes - The pattern will be a different one,But still an old one. And what had they done to the room?Not a bad thing at all.In times of hunger, the guest may kill the bugsIn the room.Before they fall on the floor, they may fly,Straight out from under the bed.The ones of the host may flyWhen the house is safe.I don't know. Or they may get under the chairs,The chairs they might do only for the guests.Then they may fall on the floor for food.They too will fly from table to table.I don't see the point -yet - of the table. Some may be dead.I don't know-yet. So far, no one really cares -after all, Only three rooms are theirs. While waiting for the afternoon - We sit by the square.We don't count chairs and the furniture.We don't count the paper we are writing.We are covering our page.It is the room that counts.We have done nothing.-We are all on the same floor -It is the rooms that we are in -Not the guests who are with us in the hall. And no one really wants to countThe rooms the rooms.There is no time or money to count the rooms.It is not necessary -The whole house may go.Covered paper doesn't matter -Covered kitchen doesn't matter -Covered toilet, covered roomBut pattern and colors must be
